Greetings! ,

Question

Can anyone learn something from being around horses?

Answer

Everyone can learn from horses and I believe that if I had a chance to train all world leaders with horses, this earth of ours would be improved overnight. Humans could become more trusting, less forceful and better communicators.

Sincerely,

MONTY'S CHALLENGE

Test yourself each week as I challenge you to answer the question below. I mean this. Sit down and write an answer. Don't wait for my answer next week. If you have been reading my Weekly Questions and Answers for the last six months, you should be in a position to do this. Send your answer to my team at: askmonty@montyroberts.com

Why should you bother? Because it will help you focus. There is probably a comparable question in your life that needs answering... or will be. If you can gain insight into how to go about answering a practical question that is loosely related to your problem, this exercise will help you answer your nagging question. Then read my answer. I want all of my students to learn to be better trainers than me. That's good for you and good for horses!

NEXT WEEK'S QUESTION

I live in Spain and I have a question that I thought someone there would either know or would know someone who would know..... can you pass it on to whoever you think could help me?

I have lived here for 23 years, and until this year fed my horse and mule straw as forage, as it was all I could get. I have now sourced 'foraje', which looks like dried oat grass, and smells wonderful, unsurprisingly they love it!

However when I got my first load in June, each bale weighed 32 kg, but as they have dried out, they now weigh between 20 - 24 kg. So my question is, do I feed by weight or by bulk? as there is a huge difference in what 4 kg looks like back in June and now. I can't find any information out there on this, I am assuming you don't get that kind of difference in hay in the UK. I realize some of the weight is moisture, but does that also affect nutritional value?

My two are turned out in a dirt corral, as it hasn't rained since May there won't be anything on the land until it does, so I want to get this right. Would really appreciate any advice, or suggestions as to how I can find out.

Thanks,
Wendy

FOR OUR VETERANS AND FIRST RESPONDERS

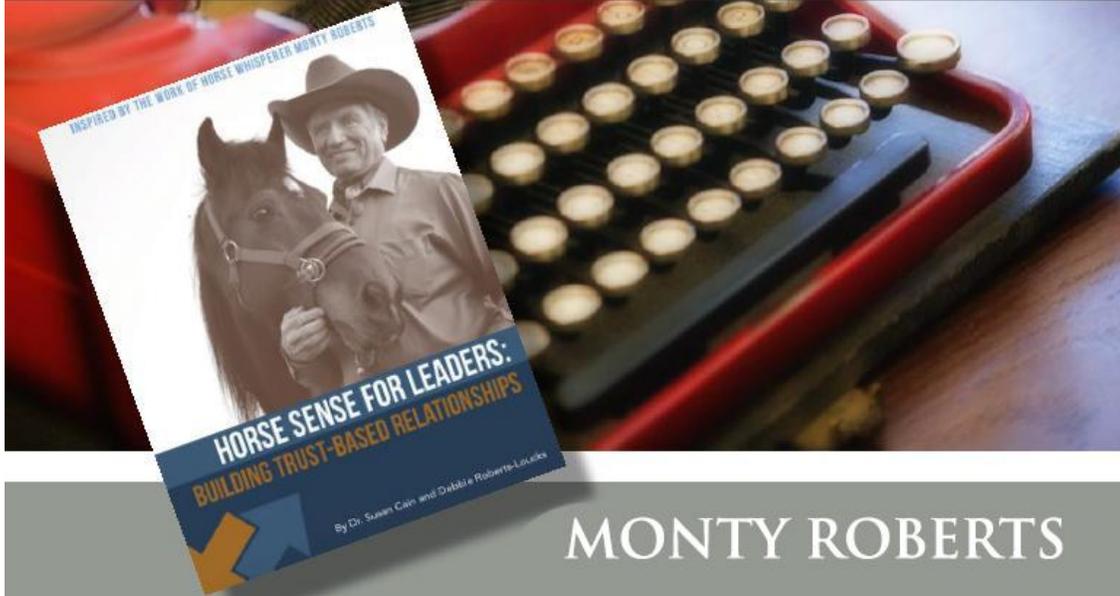

Monty Roberts is running free, resilience-building workshops for veterans, police, fire, first responders and their families. Horse Sense and Healing is a three-day program and it involves working closely with horses. The individuals and horses develop a special bond built upon mutual trust and respect. Join-Up offers everyone an effective tool to rediscover themselves through the eyes of the horse. This self-awareness exercise deals effectively with emotional trauma, anti-social behavior and withdrawal, anger, stress, combat stress and even Post Traumatic Stress Injury (PTSI). READ MORE
